Amando Maglalang Tetangco, Jr. is the first BSP governor to serve two terms, having been first appointed to the office by Philippine president Gloria Macapagal Arroyo in July 2005, and reappointed in 2011 by President Benigno Aquino III to serve another six-year term.

A career central banker, he has occupied different positions in the organization in a span of over three decades. Immediately prior to his appointment as BSP Governor, he was Deputy Governor in-charge of the Banking Services Sector, Economic Research and Treasury. In January 2013, Tetangco has been named Central Banker of the Year for Asia-Pacific by The Banker. Before this, he was honored in October 2012 by the financial magazine Emerging Markets as the Central Bank Governor of the Year for Asia. In the same year, he was named as one of the world's six best central bankers for 2012 by the Global Finance magazine, an accolade that had been previously given to him in 2006, 2007 and 2011.

As BSP Governor, Tetangco is also concurrently the Chairman of the BSP Monetary Board, the Anti-Money Laundering Council, and Philippine International Convention Center; Vice-Chairman of the Agriculture Credit Policy Council; member of the Capital Market Development Council, Export Development Council, PhilExport Board of Trustees; and director of the Philippine Deposit Insurance Corporation, National Development Council, and National Home Mortgage Finance Corporation.
